SANDIA

Sundown Magic, 7 x 9, pastel (featured on front and back cover)

Santa Fe artist Elizabeth Sandia's exuberant palette encourages the viewer to see color where you might not have before.

Her passion for the natural landscape is felt through moonlit nocturnes depicted with simple powerful shapes, intimate studies of animals, vast high mountain landscapes, and southwestern skies. Whether it's short, direct bursts of pastels, or the interweaving of reflections and transparency of water, experimentation is evident through a range of approaches.

With a variety of price points, subjects, and mediums you are bound to fall in love with one of her gutsy compositions.
